Consolidated high school to be built soon?

By DEAN JONES

A 1,760 student high school designed to house the combined populations of Glades Central and Pahokee High Schools could be under construction as early as next fiscal year and be open for business as early as 1984.

The consolidated high school, talked about seriously for at least the past ten years, was to have taken a giant step closer to reality Wednesday night when it was presented to the school board as part of a proposed five year building plan for the county.

School Superintendent Tom Mills said Tuesday the school is expected to be located adjacent to the West Technical Education Center, with the two combining to form what amounts to a comprehensive high school for all high school students west of 20 Mile Bend.

While it's still in the early planning stages, Mills said there is "considerable interest" in seeing construction start on the facility in Fiscal Year 1981-82, which begins in July. He said construction time for high schools of this sort usually runs to about two years.

Mills and West Area Superintendent of Education Jack Redding agreed there are several primary reasons for building the consolidated high school, beginning with the dilapidated and antiquated condition of both the existing high schools and other schools in the area.

Redding said the major benefit, however, would be the increased availability to students of courses for which there are not now sufficient demand to justify classes. He cited in particular such courses as physics, chemistry and calculus.

Still another benefit would accrue from the proximity of West Tech, making available technical and vocational courses to which many students now have to be bused. Mills said there is also a certain amount of competitiveness between West Tech and the two high schools which should be eliminated by the adjacent single high school.

Mills said the State Department of Education performed a survey of physical plants of Glades area schools in February. The survey indicated Pahokee High School amounts to an antiquated building and at least some of the building shouldn't be used.

Adding to the problem was similar remarks about Canal Point and Belle Glade Elementary Schools but Mills said the key building the consolidated as high school.

"Pahokee High School," Redding said, "is now housing grades 8 through 12. It's the only high school I know anywhere that includes the elementary grades."

Once the two schools are consolidated, according to Public Information Director V. Crawford, another part of the year program includes conversion of Pahokee High to an elementary school, conversion of Glades Central to a middle school and conversion of Lake Si Middle School to an elementary school.

The first hurdle before construction can begin, he noted, is getting the approval of the school board Wednesday night but Mills saw no real problem there.

"I've heard no negative comment from the board members," he said, "and I expect it to pass. I'm very strongly supportive and I hope the board members will follow the recommendation."

Redding said the input received from the Glades area has been overwhelmingly in favor of the consolidated high school. He said Mills said he's noted.

The proposed school is included as one of six recommendations of five categories to have included in the overall plan. It is part of category three, which includes projects, "necessary approved if funds become available."

That funding may be the biggest obstacle to realizing the new school, according to Crawford. He said the board will apply for state funds but the state legislature expected to change the formula for school construction programs, putting

Pahokee negotiates garbage contract

PAHOKEE — The City Council met to negotiate a garbage contract with representatives of a private garbage collection firm to take over the municipal garbage collection service Monday night at the Pahokee City Council chambers.

Public Works Director Donnie Martin asked the City Council at its regular meeting, Jan. 12 to come to agreement on the city's garbage collection system.

The Council has been faced with the question of whether to remain in the garbage collection business or to contract the service out.

Martin said he estimated the cost to repair the incinerator would be $50,000.

"The figure the Mayor received is way too high," said Martin.

Martin indicated that at meeting representatives of Automated Systems of Hollywood was still interested in meeting with the Council again to discuss a contract to take over the city's garbage collection service.

Martin said Automated Systems representatives indicated they were willing to live up to their offer made to the Council last September.

At Monday meeting, Automated Systems representatives agreed to take over the city's garbage collection at the present residential and commercial rates.

Automated Systems agreed to collect the residential garbage at the rate of $7.50 per month, and the rate would remain in effect for five years.

Automated Systems told the Council they would pick up the commercial customers' garbage at the present rate, but wanted the right to review the cost of living index, and the cost of fuels and other management increases bi-annually to justify keeping the present rate or an increase.

Martin told the Council if the City continues to collect its own garbage, the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation issue mandate that the

BGHA grant is near completion

BELLE GLADE — A $5 million combination grant and loan meant to be used for the construction of an estimated 160 housing units by the Belle Glade Housing Authority was a step closer Tuesday night. Authority members were told by Director David Motes before the Authority can advertise for bids, the last steps to be taken by the Authority before the grant and loan are closed.

He said the Authority could be ready to advertise before their next regular meeting on Feb. 27.

The advertisement and closing will end two years work that began in 1979 to get a $2.5 million loan and $2.5 million grant from

Okeechobee tenants offer rent strike settlement

By DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE—Florida Rural Legal Services attorney Don Mason said Tuesday Okeechobee tenants involved in a rent strike would leave the housing center from the Belle Glade Housing Authority in return for dropping all lawsuits and the strike.

Mason said he'd leave the details to be worked out later but said he'd like to reach a settlement with the Housing Authority, with no loss of current position on either side should the settlement be refused.

Under the general terms he described, OCH (Okeechobee Center Housing) would lease the center for a long period of time; would receive whatever portion of a $6 million loan grant due shortly from Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), which the tenants would repay; would immediately assume the operation and maintenance, as well as outstanding obligations; would have the right to apply for their own grants in the future.

Authority Chairman Louis Kirchman, after a brief consultation with other members, said the board would discuss the proposal but he wanted Authority Attorney Robert Mathews and labor attorney Margaret Cooper to examine the offer.

Mason said the proposal was the reason he and several OCH representatives attended the Authority meeting Tuesday night. He said OCH had investigated with a Community Relations board investigating committee recommendation Monday night to operate in that manner.

After making the offer, Mason and the OCH members got up and left. He had earlier confirmed an agreement made during the Monday meeting in which tenants would volunteer to tear down dilapidated vacant buildings at Okeechobee Center.

Authority Director David Motes told Authority members he had agreed on their behalf to supply men and transportation to haul off the debris.

That was the only real agreement to come out of the Monday and Tuesday meetings except an agreement by the opposing parties to begin talking to each other.

The Authority members and officials were in total disagreement with Mason over the escrow account FRLS set up at Palm Beach Lakes Bank on behalf of OCH.

Motes, Mathews and Miss Cooper, who has been working on behalf of the Authority in connection with the rent strike and termination proceedings for Authority employee Ruadeen Butts, agreed the law requires Motes to notify them of who had paid how much the escrow account, which Mason estimated now to contain $25,000.

Miss Cooper went further and suggested Authority demand that Mason supply information and she suggested the Authority set up an escrow account, using a box agent, for tenants with grievances to deposit their rent.

Miss Cooper said that was one option allowed. She said the Authority could treat tenants who hadn't paid their rent the escrow account operated by the Authority as tenants who have simply not paid their rent.

Mason said he disagreed with Miss Cooper's interpretation of the law, said the exits

see Strike P2

escrow account fulfilled the law, even though he said the three persons who have the right to withdraw funds aren't yet bonded, and warned the Authority of violating the law, saying such violations would be their responsibility.

The method followed by OCCH is setting up the escrow account was one of the primary concerns expressed by Joe Ferrara, chairman of the community Relations Board (CRB) investigating committee.

Ferrara said as he understood it, the law requires escrow accounts to be handled by a bonded agent and it should list both the tenants who are paying into the account and how much each has paid.

He agreed with the Authority officials that was the only way the Authority could tell the difference between the tenants who have bona fide grievances and were acting in accordance with the law, as opposed to those tenants who simply haven't been paying their rent.

Ferrara also said Monday night that it was his interpretation of the law that federally funded legal action attorneys such as Mason are prohibited from, among other things, involving themselves in strikes. He said he received his information from a Jan. 4 Associated Press wire story printed in The Post.

Ferrara said Mason refused to discuss his attorney-client relationship with OCCH and said Ferrara had no right to question his integrity, that only his superiors in Lakeland and Washington D.C. had that right.

"I'm not being derogatory of the FRLS," Ferrara said later. "I'm only questioning their right to get involved in strikes."

Ferrara said Tuesday, however, that "I know for a fact Mr. Mason has called at least four people today, attempting to get me removed from the (Community Relations) Board."

In spite of his disagreement with Mason during Monday night's meeting, however, Ferrara said he felt the investigating committee has made strides.

"With due respect to lawyers," he said, "I think one of the most important things we did was to put a communications system together to get people talking to people."

"If a tenant had a complaint," he said, "that hasn't been taken care of, he should take it to Mr. Motes." He said Motes can't be held responsible for all the problems at Okeechobee Center because he hasn't been director of the Housing Authority very long but he said Motes has agreed to look into why, for instance, a backstop on a softball field at the center had been dismantled and attempt to correct the situation.

He said he would like to see the escrow account deposited with the Clerk of the Circuit Court. He noted that with more than $20,000 in the account, "someone could get hurt and I told Mr. Mason the first drop of blood is on his head."

Another problem Ferrara cited was that although Mason had told the CRB when the entire board met here in December that the OCCH was in the process of getting registered as a non-profit corporation with the state, as of Monday night the registration hadn't been completed.

Motes told the Housing Authority members Tuesday night that 90 per cent of the maintenance costs incurred by the Authority since the rent strike began had been spent at Okeechobee Center.

Motes said the money will be used to replace wooden structures at the Okeechobee and Osceola Centers with CBS homes. Some will be two-bedroom duplexes; some three bedroom houses and some four bedroom houses.

He said construction would begin in lots already vacated by buildings that have been demolished or have burned down. As the new homes are built, adjoining families will be moved in and the homes they're now occupying would be demolished.

responsibility on the local districts.

"I think we may get some state funding," Crawford said, "but probably not enough to do the whole job. We'll probably have to use some funds from a special two mill tax and the school board will have to approve that after getting input from the public."

Assuming the board approves the construction plans and the two mill levy, Crawford said the new school would probably be built with a combination of the two mill and state funds.

Crawford said the current student population of Glades Central is 1,302 and the population for Pahokee High is 580, using only the students in grades 9-12. While that totals to more than the 1,760 figure for the new school, the difference is supposed to be made up by students enrolled in classrooms at West Tech.

In athletics, despite the merger, Crawford said the consolidated high school would still be a Class AAA school, with only 1,291 students enrolled in grades 10, 11 and 12. A school is Class AAA if its student population falls between 561 and 1,440. A Class AA school is below 221, Class AA, which Pahokee now is, is 222-560 and Class AAAA is a school with more than 1,440.

Mills said the construction site is on 43 acres of land that was part of the tract deeded to the school board several years ago by the state for use by West Tech. He said it would face on Hooker Highway however, rather than SR 715 as the board has already begun work in an attempt to gain more land add to the site.

School Plant Planning Executive Director Ray Verity said the administration would like to get 15 more acres to add to the existing site. He said that although a school could be built on 40 acres, it would be minimal and the extra land needed for required setback parking space and space for athletic use.

Verity will be among those sitting in on a meeting Thursday, if the board has approved the measure Wednesday evening, to map out course of action.

Mills said he has appointed Assistant School Superintendent H.W. "Dick" Berryman to chair the committee, which will be charged first of all with coming up with educational specifications which will have a direct bearing on the size and type of facility to be constructed.

Verity said the next step would be to tour schools with similar educational specifications in the state to get ideas on what will be needed.

Pahokee marina leased

By Alma Henry
PAHOKEE — The municipal breakwater has officially reopened for business under the management of William Joiner of North Miami Beach and Marvin Averill, of Hialeah. The Pahokee City Council awarded Averill and Joiner the two-year lease of the operation of sites. The breakwater closed since April of last year when the former manager gave up his lease a month before his contract was to expire.

During the past months, the City has made more than $2,000 worth of repairs at the facility to return it to operable condition.

Councilman Hugo Rainieri, who is supervisor of the parks and recreation department made many of the repairs himself.

Joiner said both he and Averill have camped and fished at the breakwater on numerous occasions and felt the business can be a successful operation.

The Council has agreed to split the fees from the camping and docking fees at the breakwater with the two managers. The operators will also receive the profits of the concession stand and fishing fees.

The breakwater. The two businessmen moved here from Dade county and used to spend time each year camping and fishing at the Pahokee Harbor.

Joiner said the facility has been remodeled somewhat, and the breakwater will be open 24 hours a day whenever weather permits. There will also be 24 hour security for residents who dock their boats and fishermen who would like to store their boats at the harbor.

The concession stand will be selling fish gear, snacks, and bait, and the breakwater will be open for fishing 24 hours a day. The charge for fishing off the breakwater will be 75 cents.

Fees for dockage and camping will be charged by the day or month.

Joiner said water and electric services will be installed at the 32 camp-

Joiner said among the new services offered will be hot sandwiches at the concession stand, fishing lights for rent at a cost of 75 cents, and canoe and paddleboat rentals on Lake Okechobee in the spring.

Joiner said during the winter months it would not be safe to rent canoes and paddleboats because of the unpredictable weather.

"I would hate to see someone get caught out in the middle of the lake with a storm approaching," Joiner said.

Mayor Noma Norman, and Rainieri were on hand several days last week to assist Joiner and Averill with the opening, expressed optimism in the breakwater operation.

"I feel the new operators and the Council will work to make the harbor the 'pride of Pahokee' once again," said Rainieri.

Two Rotary clubs may become one

The Rotary Clubs of Belle Glade and Pahokee may merge next week into a Rotary Club of the Glades if enough members of the Belle Glade club agree to take in the final members of the club that sponsored it and got it started.

Belle Glade Rotary President Dale Stapp read a copy of a letter and absentee ballot Tuesday to the members of his club, saying the merger had been requested by the Pahokee club. He said he had been informed by Pahokee President Julius Moon had informed him that club's membership is now down to about 20 members, with ten attending meetings regularly and about five active.

"The board of directors," Stapp said, "has prepared a proposal which has been accepted by the Pahokee Club. The board voted to place this proposal before the general membership for a vote. In order to pass, the proposal must receive a 2/3 majority of all eligible voters present."

Stapp led a discussion during the Tuesday meeting and said another discussion will be held next Tuesday, with a vote at that time.

The proposal is to maintain the present officers of the Belle Glade club through 1982, to maintain the same meeting time and place of the Belle Glade Club, to accept all members of the Pahokee club with no admission fee and to change the boundaries of the club to include all of Western Palm Beach County west of 20 Mile Bend, changing the name of the club to Rotary Club of the Glades.

There was apparently little concern with most of the proposal but several questions were raised about the name change, with several members asking if the name Belle Glade could or should be retained, for instance with the name, Rotary Club of the Glades in Belle Glade.

Belle Glade Club member Marvin Unwin made a plea to the membership to accept the proposal, saying the Pahokee Rotary Club had made a number of contributions to the Belle Glade Community over the years, particularly in the early years, aside from sponsoring the Belle Glade club.

How 9 See 9t

by Alma Henry

As people across the nation celebrated the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birthday last Thursday, there were many of us who took part in local celebrating here in South Florida. Yet there were many of us who were unaware that Thursday was the birthday of one of America's outstanding citizens.

In step with several states across the nation, Governor Bob Graham issued a proclamation in Dr. King's honor on last week, but with the usual slowness of the U.S. Postal Service I received the proclamation Friday, a day late.

However, I would still like to share bits and pieces of the proclamation for such a noble character with you.

WHEREAS, the State of Florida recognizes the significant contributions made by the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., in that his birthday, Jan. 15, is a holiday as recorded in Section 683.01, Florida Statutes and the 1978 Laws of Florida, Chapter 78-30, approved by the Governor and filed in the office of the Secretary of State May 8, 1978;

WHEREAS, the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was born January 15, 1929 in Atlanta, Ga; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., dedicated his life so that Black Americans enjoy the freedoms guaranteed every citizen under the United States Constitution and the Declaration of Independence; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was an advocate of nonviolent methods of social change in the struggle for justice, equality and freedom;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Bob Graham, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Governor of the State of Florida do hereby proclaim January 15, 1981 as

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. DAY
IN Florida and urge all citizens to join me in saluting this great American for his contributions to our Nation.

Bob Graham

A fitting tribute.

The arena of politics is one that lets you know in a hurry who your real friends are.

Two years ago during my quest for the West Borough City Commission seat I found out who my real friends were, I made many new friends, and gained the support of many of the citizens of Belle Glade: young and old; black and white.

One of my strongest supporters and most helpful campaign workers, James Flintroy, one of the Belle Glade senior citizens came to my aid and helped me to launch one of the Glades' most highly visible campaigns for the city commission.

Flintroy and his nails and hammer were seen across Belle Glade placing 'Elet Alma Henry' posters on everything. His old worn, but running truck was the king of parades with Alma Henry posters all over the thing, it was as though a new yellow paint job had been placed on the red-flat-bed truck Flintroy drove.

It was indeed the apple of my eye and heart. Flintroy died in his sleep this week, I shall miss him, an I'm certain his family and his many friends shall miss him also. I most of all will miss his smile and the respect I gained for Flintroy and the respect he had for me. The phrase "Missus Alma how are you doing, got anything I can do for you?" is one I shall cherish for many moons to come.

Sleep well my friend.

Consolidated school is good sign

Some of the best imaginable news Glades residents concerned with the quality of education available in area schools could have heard came this week in the inclusion of a consolidated Glades area high school in a five year building program submitted to the school board.

Consolidation of Glades Central and Pahokee High Schools will solve a number of problems now experienced by students and faculty members of both schools.

It would provide a more modern physical plant for the people who inhabit high school classrooms. It will mean the availability of courses for which our brighter students now go begging, including subject matter such as higher mathematics, and advanced science and it will mean the close proximity of facilities to teach our students technical and vocational courses to which they must now be bused.

A side benefit which will be enjoyable, if not as important as those just listed, will be that future football teams will probably be unbeatable judging the past record of the two schools in the area...and the consolidated school will still be Class AAA.

It will be, for all intents and purposes, a comprehensive high school that will offer the best of all possible worlds to high school students west of 20 Mile Bend, although the law requires a technical separation.

This is a concept that has been discussed for years, and for years it appeared to be years in the future. Now it appears closer at hand.

The Glades area lost out several years ago when community leaders, for whatever reasons, scuttled the idea of a Glades area hospital.

Let's not make that same foolish mistake when it comes to the education of our children and our children's children.

Sugar Daddy

Good neighbors, in this highly mobile society, are hard to come by and that's all the more reason to appreciate a neighborly act by a brand new member of the community.

That was the case during the week following Christmas when United States Sugar made possible with a donation a project that's been eluding the South Bay City Commissioners for years.

Like most things of this nature, the contribution wasn't a result of one man deciding to do something and then doing it. It was the result of a number of men working hard over several months with the result that the city is now looking forward to two city parks, equipped for use by everyone from young children to the elderly.

U.S. Sugar has a track record of helping out the communities in which it lives and apparently intends to continue along the same road in the wake of the purchase of South-Bay Growers.

Of course, the $180,700 donation won't pay the entire cost for both parks but it more than matches the $100,000 combined grants being made by Palm Beach County and the County Community Development Program.

And for that, South Bay residents already have cause to be grateful for the new neighbor in the community.

Of migrant workers and hostages

The image-problem Belle Glade has in the rest of the county and state (and I guess nationally too) is disturbing to me. It's disturbing, because I, after having lived in the Glades for the past six months, don't think the conditions here are as bad as NBC or other big-city media outlets have made them out to be.

In the newspaper business, you get to mix and mingle with all types of folks; from rich to poor, powerful to common. You see the good and bad. Belle Glade has its share of the bad. With the high number of migrants the Glades has, there are bound to be unique and pressing problems.

But the Glades' migrant problems are unique, they are not catastrophic or socially unpardonable. And they certainly aren't as bad as the big-city media had portrayed.

The slanted portrayal that Big Media gives to the Glades, however, doesn't come from just a biased preconceived notion that some reporter might have driving into our area to do his newspaper's or his station's monthly rural feature. It also may very well be that most reporters (excluding NBC's) sincerely are trying to be objective and believe that the bad they see is only predominant.

The one-sided reporting about the Glades that exists in Big Media comes from reporter and editor ignorance of our area. Most of the reporters who write or broadcast about the Glades don't live here or aren't able to take the time to thoroughly analyze our unique region. This ignorance isn't intentional. If I were trying to report about the East Coast, I wouldn't be able, without special time-grant from my superiors, be able to cover all the bases that I should either.

All this shows is one obvious thing—your local newspapers report more honestly, objectively, and with more depth than any other news organization.

This paper and our competitor, along with our local radio station, know more about this area, having lived and worked with our people for more than half-a-century, than any other news organization on the coast does. This sounds like a promo for our local media, but it's also the truth. And it's something most understand when you criticize the media and its handling of the migrant worker stories.

The local media reported, in depth, both sides of the migrant worker issue. The Herald-Observer was the paper, including those on either coast, that gave the most coverage to the Florida Farm Bureau's well-documented rebuttal to NBC's shoddy migrant worker feature. So, when you consider condemning the entire world of journalism, remember, there is a difference—your local papers generally have the most correct and balanced reports of local happenings. That's just good, common sense.

It Is Over In Iran

It was a bitter cold winter in Wyoming when I wrote, out of a shared sense of sheer frustration with the rest of my countrymen, that the United States simply had to do something to effect the quick release of the American hostages in Iran.

Now, I've moved thousands of miles to South Florida. The hostages are still not home but now seem to soon be headed for U.S. at last. And its bitter cold here too this winter, by Florida standards at least. It is amazing to me that there has been icicles on oranges down here.

There have been billions of words written and spoken concerning the hostage crisis and with their release, there will be millions more. So, all I want to add to them is Thank God they are coming home. I'm sure everyone in the Glades are thankful as well. May this kind of gut-wrenching thing never happen to our nation again.

Dean Jones
Cracker Crumbs

Cowboys, according to Willie and Waylo ain't easy to love and they're harder to hol but one thing's becoming increasingly obvious about 'em. They're either breeding like jack rabbits or one of those cloning labs is keeping us up with the latest developments.

I never have been able to figure out why causes a fad to catch on and I'm following it form now when all those uptown types a turning on to clothes they would've turned over to Goodwill a few years ago.

It's bad enough when Lone Star belt buckle and old, faded Levis start turning up on Pa Avenue and in Palm Beach but you really beg to wonder what's coming off whom the next way you can tell the real McCoy is to look i circular Copenhagen wear marks in the h pockets, cow manure on the boots or awe stains on the shirt.

And things have really bottomed out wh you hear police have uncovered a cache 30,000 pairs of counterfeit Calvin Klein jeans in Cincinnati.

I guess I'm old fashioned enough that I st have to stop and think about the generic ter "jeans" instead of Levis and here they are i Ohio counterfeiting counterfeiters.

Levi Strauss is probably spinning in a grave. I mean, that guy started out making honest product, using tent material to ma pants for miners during the California go rush.

Those pants had the reputation outwearing the miners' boots but now, we g designer jeans that are apparently supposed look as though they've come packaged in spr cans. Forget comfort and fashion.

I guess that's what strikes me as odd about the whole western wear thing these days. Put man on a horse and ask him to spend days, a lot of nights, out of doors and it makes ser to wear boots, straight-legged jeans that li forever and a wide-brimmed, high-crowned h just like it makes sense for an iron worker wear boots, tough pants and a hard hat.

Makes you wonder if it's only a matter time before Calvin Klein comes out with ha hats and engineer boots and call it constructi chic.

And the uptown fashion plates will probab be wearing welding gauntlets w embroidered silk cuffs, by Gucci of course, a gold lame welding hoods finished off w monogrammed, reflective lenses.

The net effect will probably be the same one disgraced cowboy remarked not too ago, that since Stegton have been fashionable, the price has been driven up i the working cowboys as well as the Fil Avenue copycats.

It could even get to the point that t copycats are the only people who'll be able afford western duds, leaving the work cowboy with the option of wearing cutaw morning coats to herd their cattle in.

Can't you just imagine the reaction of soa steer near Kissimmee the first time one o boys shows up wearing a high silk hat, gr morning coat, grey kid gloves, striped par and spats, and maybe sporting a cane.

"Move along, little cowsi-wowsie, for y know Worth Avenue will be your nu home...and if you hurry, maybe we can get t penthouse today."

Course you couldn't expect THIS cowboy handle anything as dirty as a lariat, but could always bash the recalcitrant cow with t gold knob on his cane to get his attention and the odor of the cattle drive gets to be too mu he could always take refuge by inhaling fr his boutonniere.

And to herald the new image, it would tal whole new breed of writers and singers. I Sons of the Pioneers would have to give way the Sons of the Stockbrokers, leaving Wayl and Willie to migrate to Park Avenue West satisfy their new audiences.

Makes a lot of sense, doesn't it? Just abo as much as the Go West Young Man cra does.

Now if Horace Greely ever comes back reverse his old slogan, advising everyone to (Down East, we can look for designer slicks and Norwester gear and a new theme pa dedicated along the lines of the Nantuck Sleighride.

GET THE FAT OUT

High blood levels of cholesterol and triglycerides (often referred to as fats) have been associated with hardening of the arteries and heart disease. Eating foods high in cholesterol or saturated fats causes blood fat levels to increase for most people.

Blood fat levels may be reduced by diet alone or diet in combination with certain medicines that have been shown to lower fat levels. The following medicines are typical of those used.

CLOFIBRATE (Atromid-S) is often particularly effective in reducing triglyceride levels.

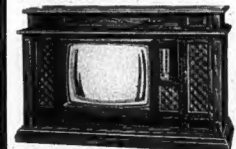

NICOTINIC ACID represents a B vitamin that can lower both cholesterol and triglyceride levels.

CHOLESTYRAMINE and other resins appear to prevent fats from being absorbed from the intestine and, thereby, reduce levels of blood fats.

Some individuals do not respond to any one of the above medicines when used alone. Physicians may use two or even three in an effort to "get the fat out".

Finally, a tax loophole for the little guy.

It's as close as your phone.

If you are not already participating in a legally approved retirement plan (or if you're anticipating a change in the status of your current plan), an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) is worth looking into.

That's why Bank of Pahokee now has a full-time IRA expert available to you. At no charge, no strings attached.

There's a lot more to an IRA than tax benefits and great savings potential.

If you've heard about IRA's, you know that your retirement savings are tax-deferred and Bank of Pahokee pays the highest interest rates allowed by law. But that's just the start.

What about an IRA for the working woman? Or a non-working spouse?

Glades Day stays even

By SCOTT ELLIS

Keeping their record dead-even at 4-4 so far this year, the Glades Day High School Gators cagers beat one Ft. Pierce team and lost to another last week.

In an away contest Saturday, Glades Day mauled hapless Palm Vista, 81-28, with everyone on the 10-man squad, except for Jeff Smith and Scott Meredith, getting some playing time and points on the board.

But in another away match Friday, opponent John Carroll came from behind, winning a thriller in overtime, 76-72. Everyone but Tom Wilson and Smith saw action in this tussle.

With a 40-25 lead at the end of the half, Coach Dick Schmidt was a little perplexed trying to describe why his squad lost it in the last two quarters.

"I don't really know why we lost the game," Schmidt said. "I don't think it was our shooting or our turnovers."

Schmidt said he thought the turning point of the game occurred the last six minutes, when two of his starters—Richard Schiele and Tom Swager—fouled out. Swager led the team in scoring that night with 23 tallies. Schiele was tied for second in points with Dan Ross. They each had 14.

Pointing to that and the incredible John Carroll surge, Schmidt said he thought his team didn't do all that bad.

John Carroll was still six points down with little more than a minute to go. But it managed to tie the game, then go ahead with just six seconds left. Although the Gators tied it up at the buzzer to send the match into overtime, John Carroll used its height advantage (Swager and Schiele are the team's tallest men, both about 6'3") to dominate the final period.

John Carroll is also a Class AA school, and Schmidt said he thought his Class A team did very well against it.

Other scorers in the match were Greg Chancey with 12; Jason Shelton, 7; and David Lakatos, 2.

Against Palm Vista though, it was a completely different story. This smaller Ft. Pierce school was virtually defenseless against the Gators. Ross led his squad in scoring with 15 points.

Other scorers were Schiele, 14; Swager, 14; Chancey, 11; Lakatos, 10; Wilson, 8; Shelton, 6; and Andy Fontaine, 3.

With the season about one-third over, the Gators' record stood worse this year than at the same time last year. But Schmidt said his team has faced tougher opponents so far than last year and hasn't had as many good breaks either.

"We just have to get our consistency up. That will be the key to our success," Schmidt said. "I think it will be good experience to have these close ballgames now...later in the year, with more wins, our confidence will be up more."

Meanwhile, the Glades Day junior varsity continued its unbeaten streak to 4-0 by downing John Carroll 60-31. Scorers versus John were Raul Garcia with 14; Jorge Rodriguez, 13; Oscar Toledo, 10; Davy Haynes and Jose Perez with 6 each; Mike Schleier, 5; and Mike Mock, Frank Thompson, Mike Basone and Stewart Hutton, with 2 each.

Scorers in the team's JV Christian Day win (43-34) last week were Haynes and Hutton, each with 9; Basone, Mock, Rodriguez, 4 each; Toledo, Bryan Lohman, Tomas Hernandez, 3; Schleier, Thompson and Perez, each with 2.

Friday, the Gators go to rival Moore Haven's gym and Saturday, Glades Day hosts Palm Beach Prep. The Gators have already defeated Palm Beach, but it will be the first meeting between the Gators and Moore Haven.

Tuesday, Glades Day trudges to Naples Christian.

Central girls keep hot cage streak

BEILE GLADE — The Glades Central Community High girls basketball team cruised past three opponents last week, almost tripling their scores in every game, to give themselves a 12-1 record for the season and remain unbeaten in conference play.

Linda Joye Burroughs scored a total of 74 points in the three games to lead the girls to a 67-53 win over Jupiter, a 76-28 victory over Pahokee and a 67-30 win over Martin County.

Coach Mike Logsdon said the girls have been playing with a pressure defense that holds down scoring by the opposition while using a fast break to speed the ball to Miss Burroughs on offense.

"That's why Joye has been scoring so well," Logsdon said. "The other girls have been getting the ball to her and no one can hold her one on one. She's the best girl basketball player I've ever seen. She's a total team player."

Logsdon said he's also discovered more talent in another player who had been riding the bench in the early part of the season. When starter Mary West missed one entire game and got into foul trouble in another, he said Karen Gooden stepped in and defended Kim Pellegrini, the 6'2" high scorer on the Jupiter team, and Vickie Parks, the leading scorer for Martin County.

"Karen did such a good job on the Pellegrini girl," Logsdon said, "that she only let her have two points in the entire first half." Against Martin County, he said, "(Karen and Mary really shut (Parks) off."

"We set two goals against Martin County," Logsdon said. "We set a goal of holding them to 30 points. That's what we allowed them. We also set a goal of scoring 70 points. We made 67 but that's close enough."

"The girl haven't peaked yet," he went on, "and that's good. We want to peak out about the time we go into the playoffs. That's when it counts."

He said the 67-23 win over Jupiter last Monday, "was a total blowout from the beginning. The bench played more than half the game."

In that game, Burroughs scored 21 points, made two rebounds, 14 steals and 13 assists. She was followed by Jessica Hansford with 14 points, 14 rebounds, two steals and seven assists; Dianne Bussie with 12 points, 14 rebounds, three steals and one assist; Denise Bussie with 12 points, five rebounds, one steal and six assists; Karen Gooden with six points, 13 rebounds, one steal and two assists and Davina Johnson with two points and one rebound.

The Lady Raiders handed Pahokee their second defeat of the season Thursday in a 76-28 walk-away. Logsdon noted the team's scoring was balanced throughout the evening with 19 points being racked up each quarter.

In that game, Burroughs scored 27 points and made 10 steals and six assists. She was followed by Mary West with 10 points, 17 rebounds, two steals and one assist; Jessica Hansford with nine points, 12 rebounds, five steals and two assists; Dianne Bussie with six points, one steal, ten rebounds and two assists; Denise Bussie with six points, two steals and three assists; Annette Miller with 12 points and eight rebounds; Karen Gooden with five points, four rebounds and one steal and Davina Johnson with one point, two rebounds and one assist.

In the game against Martin County, Burroughs again led the scoring with 26 points, seven assists and four steals. Jessica Hansford led the rest of the Raiders with 13 points, five assists and 12 rebounds, followed by Mary West with 12 points, 10 rebounds and three assists; Dianne Bussie with eight points, 11 rebounds and two steals; Denise Bussie with four points, two assists and three steals; Gloria Stewart with three points and five rebounds; Karen Gooden with one point, seven rebounds and two assists.

The Lady Raiders' next two games are at home. They face North Shore this evening and Clewiston on Monday.

Cold kills fish in Lake

Cold water in Lake Okechobee has resulted in a massive fish die-off, according to the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

Lake Okechobee Fisheries Management and Utilization Project Leader Lathan Ager said the primary species affected is the tidewater silverside, a common lake minnow.

However, Ager said he expects that thousands of snook have also been killed. Other species such as bass, bream and catfish most likely won't be affected.

Most of the dead fish have sunk to the bottom but as they decompose, the resulting gases will cause them to float. The extent of the kill should be apparent within ten days. In a normal winter, the lake's water temperature seldom ranges below 58 to 62 degrees, said Ager. This year's recorded low is 45 degrees and is attributed to the extended cold weather that began before Christmas.

"This is the lowest I have ever seen the lake's water temperature," said Ager. He noted that the tidewater silverside die-off was unexpected as the Commission was not aware cold water would have this kind of an impact.

Snook, said Ager, are a sub-tropical gamefish that move into Lake Okechobee through the Colossalatchee River and the St. Lucie Canal. He said snook seem unable to tolerate water temperatures lower than 54 degrees for more than three days at a time. The last recorded snook kill from lake water was in 1957 when literally thousands of the big fish washed up on the banks.

Ager said snook are fairly common in the fish sampling his crew conducts and a limited sport fishery for them has developed in the lake and its outlets.

The cold weather has also had an impact on the annual speckled perch season. Specks, or black crappie, lure thousands of anglers to the lake each winter and the tasty pan-fish have become an important economic resource for the entire region.

This season, speck fishing hasn't been as good as during some past years. Ager said one of the reasons is that specks don't move around as much in the colder water and therefore, don't feed as often.

Warmer weather may serve to spark a speckled perch run and with the lake's water level low, the fish should be more concentrated and accessible to sport fishermen. It could be that we may have a "good speckled perch season later on," said Ager.

Lake Okechobee is presently closed to commercial fishing for speckled perch and other scale fish. Commercial operations are scheduled to resume on March 1.

Raiders Bowling

BEILE GLADE—The Glades Central basketball team split decisions last week, losing Tuesday to North Shore, 61-51, and taking it out on Cardinal Newman with a 52-37 win Friday.

Raiders coach George Mattes said the story in the loss to North Shore was that the Raiders couldn't contain James Roberts, who scored 27 points and made 17 rebounds for the Mustangs.

"Roberts was just too much for us," Mattes said. "He dominated the backboards and we couldn't contain him. We didn't execute well either. We had the opportunity but we couldn't capitalize on them."

He said Wayne Bussie was the Raider's high scorer, making 21 points.

In the win over Cardinal Newman, Edwin Haynes made 16 points and 12 assists while Gardner Torrence scored 16 points.

"Cardinal Newman slowed the ball down on us in the first half," Mattes said. "We went into the half a point ahead and they turned the ball over quite a bit in the second half. That was the story there."

The Raiders were scheduled to play Suncoast Tuesday night and will play Friday at Atlantic.

Cook's Choice

This week's Cook's Corner features the "Recipe for the Year" submitted by the Orange Circle Progress group at Glades Correctional Institution. The Orange Circle Progress at GCI is similar to Alcoholics Anonymous, and the organization seeks to rehabilitate inmates who consider themselves alcoholics.

The organization is under the sponsorship of Sgt. Albert Smith, and H. Rutledge serves as editor of the Orange Circle's monthly newsletter. Membership in the group is open to any inmate that wishes to take advantage of Orange Circle Progress' services.

Take 12 fine, full grown months, see that these are thoroughly free from old memories of bitterness, rancor, hate and jealousy. Cleanse them completely from every clinging spite. Pick off all specks of pettiness, and bitterness, in short see that these months are free from all the past. Keep them as fresh and clean as when they first came from the great storehouse of time.

This batch will keep for just one year. Do not attempt to make a whole batch at one time, but prepare one day at a time as follows:

INTO EACH DAY PUT:

- 24 parts of FAITH
- 23 parts of PATIENCE
- 20 parts of COURAGE
- 18 parts of WORK
- 6 parts of PRAYER
- 4 parts of MEDITATION
- 1 well thought of RESOLUTION.

Because of the unprecedented demand for the sponsorship of the show by charitable organizations around the country, Ebony Fashion Fair now tours two seasons — the East and Midwest from September through December and the Southwest from January through May appearing in more than 174 cities.

Mrs. Sylvia Gibson, of West Palm Beach is serving as general chairperson of the benefit performance and indicates tickets sales are going exceptionally well and expects an even larger attendance than last year.

Tickets are $12 and can be purchased from Mrs. Brenda Montgomery, at Pahokee High School in the Guidance Office.

Mrs. Montgomery, a member of the sorority, said Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., is a public service sorority that has been in Palm Beach County for more than 50 years.

It has a national membership of over 100,000 and its chapters are found on most college and university campuses, nationally and internationally.

"The West Palm Beach Alumnae Chapter is a progressive working unit," she said. "A few of our many activities are Project Concern, the Sickle Cell Anemia Fund, Voters Registration, Black College Night, participation in Afro-Arts Festival, Political Action Leadership Conferences and financial and career seminars for high school seniors and parents," Mrs. Montgomery added.

"Delta also sponsors the annual Ebony Fashion Fair in West Palm Beach each year. As a result, more than $60,000 in academic scholarships has been awarded to deserving students," she said. The highest record for attendance for the show was more than 7,500 persons in 1979, which produced $63,244 for the United Negro College Fund.

Sugar cane harvest in the Glades

By SCOTT ELLIS

To newcomers, those huge clouds of smoke on the horizon might indicate a terrible fire disaster, a blaze raging out of control. But Glades residents know otherwise. Those fires, the seasonal burning of South Florida sugar cane, represent the economic life blood of our region.

The Sugarcane Growers Cooperative of Florida runs the Glades Sugar House near Airport Road in Belle Glade. It's the largest sugar mill in the United States and the Coop employs more people than any other enterprise in the eastern Lake Okechobee area, according to Allen McPhail, a company personnel and safety spokesman.

"In terms of sheer dollars, our company has an incalculable beneficial economic impact on the region," McPhail said. "We make a helluva contribution."

A group of more than 50 local cane farmers formed the coop in 1960. The coop supervises the harvesting and sale of the cane, while the farmers take care of the planting and raising, McPhail said.

During the harvesting season, from about Nov. 1 to April 1, McPhail says the company has about 2,500. About 1,500 of those are "offshore workers," the predominantly Jamaican cane-cutters who work almost solely in the field. In the off-season, the company has about 400 workers.

Salaries and wages vary widely, with some cane-cutters receiving an average of $5 per hour and others receiving $300 to $400 per week, McPhail said. But the workers pull seven-day, dawn-to-dusk shifts, in all types of weather, he added.

"It's not easy work. It's dusty and dirty and tough. But our workers are paid well for it," McPhail said.

The harvesting process is a fairly simple, but interesting procedure. The first step is the burning of the cane. It's a controlled burn, McPhail said, and very necessary.

"Without it, the thick wall the cane grows, you wouldn't even be able to walk into the field to cut it," he said. "Dead leaves have to be eliminated too."

After workers torch the cane, it takes only about 20 minutes for it to burn. After it burns, the thickness is greatly reduced and the cane is ready for cutting, either mechanically, or by hand.

As the cane is torched, rabbits and rats scurry from the burning fields, jumping into the nearest canals for relief from the inferno.

"One time, we had a real problem, last year, with hunters who would station themselves with shotguns and blast away at the animals when they ran out of the burning cane fields," McPhail said. "We prevailed upon them to stop doing this. We were afraid they'd shoot one of our employees."

Mechanical loaders scoop up the cane (expertly cut by the offshore crews) and put it into carts called "sugar babies." The carts, pulled by tractors, haul the cane to the semi-trucks, which then take the burnt, cut cane to the mill for grinding.

The carts hold about three tons each and the trucks haul about 20 tons. No trucks are allowed to run at night because of safety reasons. The company owns about 135 trucks and grinds about 18,000 tons of cane a day, producing about 1,800 tons of raw sugar, McPhail said.

THE INSIDE OF A ready-to-mill cane stalk. The lines inside the cane contain shiny, sweet sugar. About 10 percent of the stalk is turned into raw sugar.

A MECHANICAL loader picks the cut sugar cane, layed in neat rows, and puts it in carts, or "sugar babies." The carts, which each hold about three tons of cane, are then taken to semi-trucks which then take the cane to the mill.

I got lost on my first trip to Miami

I made my first trip to Miami recently and of course, like everyone else, I ended up getting lost. After all, five times around the Intracoastal is a bit much!

I saw a gentleman who looked like he had lived in Miami, standing on the street corner so I stopped to ask him for directions. I learned my lesson for the day, (among other things). Never to stop at an intersection in Miami during lunch hour to ask for directions! Have you ever noticed how many peculiar sounding horns there are in a town like Miami?

The gentleman giving me directions just smiled like nothing was happening and said, "Relax, these people don't have anywhere to go."

It makes me wonder. Out of all the qualities the human mind can possess a person male or female cannot properly direct a motorist to his destination. I ended up back on the Intracoastal again, after my experience.

For example: I never accept an invitation to someone's home in the country. Most people who live in the country are unable to clearly give directions to their house. They become certifiable lunatics trying to describe which stop light to turn at! "You turn right and come to a big blue house that has been burned down for a number of years"... There is one stumbling block, how am I suppose to find a blue house that is no longer standing?

Then there is the person who is a tangent talker and loves to give directions by means of fractions. "Turn left 3/8 of a mile down Jones road." Problem there is you have to drive twenty miles back just to get a measuring tape!

One of the classics is a story about a New Englander stopping to ask a small town farmer for direction.

"Where does this road go?"

"I never seen it go nowhere."

"How far is it to the next town?"

"I never measured it."

"Your not very smart, are you?"

"Maybe not, but I'm not lost."

You also have the salesmen who drive around for a living and hate to admit they need directions. They'll find a taxi, ask him to go to a certain destination and follow him there.

In a vast town like Miami, where I had trouble, I believe people are afraid to admit they know where something is located. They'll say, "I'm a stranger here myself." I have decided if I ever get into another situation like before (I am sure I will) I'll say, "Don't talk - just point!"

MORE SHORT STUFF

The theater! A place where we all enjoy going to get away from the drudgeries of the day. A place for entertainment.

Pahokee's Prince Theatre is planning a production for release in the early spring. It is only in the beginning stages but it seems to be very promising and entertaining.

We have a slight problem with production, which is, we do not have enough people to help with the technical effects for the play.

We are in need of persons to help with lighting, sound, make-up set design, costumes and a bunch of other jobs are available.

If you are interested or you know someone who is interested you can call me at 996-2056 or Mr. Barry Russal at Palm Beach Jr. college 996-3055 or just show up! We are at the Prince Theatre every Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 until 10 p.m.

We do love to see you there too!

DESIGNED FOR POWER

In the annals of sailing there have been few to surpass the clipper. She piled the seven seas and helped a new nation become a world power.

But what was their formula for success? God's power and man's design making fullest use of it. You don't have to count the sails or study the rigging to know that.

Is it any different when we employ steam, electricity or atomic power? These are sources of power God has provided. We design the craft and machinery to put them to use.

Try that formula for everyday living. The power comes from God, you put it to the best use. That's what religion is about!

They were wise and skilled Americans who designed the "clipper." They are wise and skilled, likewise, whose week begins with the worship of God, and whose days put his Power to Christian use.

KEEPING THE FAITH

BY THE REV. JOE ED MCGRAHEY

Community United Methodist Church

"And the Lord will possess Judah as His portion in the Holy Land, and will again choose Jerusalem. Be silent, all flesh, before the Lord; for He is aroused from His holy habitation." Zechariah 2:12, 13 NASB

Sometimes as we look at world events we get the idea that all things are in the hands of strange people who are not sure what they are doing. For as we look at current situations it seems that everything is going wrong that can go wrong. International diplomacy seems to be breaking down at almost every level. The world economy exploding - with the price of a gallon of gasoline in some parts of the world costing more than a barrel of oil cost in the past.

International terrorists seem to be able to get by with most anything and most world governments are even willing to recognize them as legitimate. Then there is an unknown sort of tension in the air. People are wondering what is really about to happen.

What is God saying in the midst of all this world upheaval? Those who sought to stay in His Presence think they were very seriously or not at all. There will be a consistent message. The message is that something big is getting ready to happen.

The time is very quickly coming when people are not going to be able to play church. Belonging to the church or attending when it is convenient is not going to have any meaning. Our faith is something we will either take very seriously or not at all. There will be no social or economical benefit in being a lukewarm member of the church. Rather that kind of religion will become a total liability.

I believe we are right now living in God's countdown and while there are many who will scoff at the idea of such a thing. That does not change the fact of promises being fulfilled.

In 1948 an international miracle happened. A people who had not been a nation, nor had a government, nor a land of their own for nearly 1900 years became a nation. ISRAEL was born! In 1968, Jerusalem again became the capital of Israel. All of this was the fulfillment of prophecies that are 1900 to more than 2500 years old.

But these events, along with other worldwide happenings, mark the start of God's very special activity during "the last days." Therefore you and I are living in some of the most exciting days man has ever lived. But unless we are living in a close and very real relationship with the Lord - we will very likely miss what God is doing. We will otherwise only see the actions of man.

I sense in the general public today the same attitude the children of Israel had when they came to the Red Sea. In front of them the sea, behind them there was the Egyptian army. It looked like they had the choice of drowning in the sea, or being slaughtered by the Egyptians. But God had not brought them to that place for either of these things.

Neither have we been brought to this place for destruction. But just as they needed to depend upon God for direction, so do we need to. Man's ideas and solutions will not get us through the situations of today.

As a people, we need to learn where God is leading us today and then do whatever He directs us to do. This means we had better get around to making Jesus Christ the first priority of our lives. We need to learn how to come before the Lord until we have heard His word. Then we need the courage to follow

Daughters installed

WEST PALM BEACH—Masud Court #71, Daughters of Isis recently held their last meeting of the year to elect and install newly elected officers for 1981.

Daughter Roberts Rolie, outgoing Illustrious Commandress, opened the meeting thanking everyone for their support given her while serving as Illustrious Commandress.

After transacting all of the business, the meeting was turned over to the Deputy of the Isis, Daughter Dorothy G. Oliver, of Belle Glade, who conducted the election and installation ceremony.

New Officers are Mary Lopez, Illustrious Commandress; Bertha Powell, First Lt. Commandress; Frances Walker, Second Lt. Commandress; Betty Corbett, High Priestess; Alvario Arnold, Oriental Guide; Freddie Wilder, treasurer; Alice Wright, Recordress; Amelia Reese, First Ceremony Daughter; Mary Lawrence, Second Ceremony Daughter; Edna Jones, Inside Spy; Essie Allen, Outside Spy; Frances Mobley, Marshall; and Dorothy Oliver, Asst. Recordress.

The gavel was presented to the new Illustrious Commandress, Lopez, by Mrs. Oliver who thanked the Daughters for their support.

"To close our successful year," said Mrs. Oliver, "we sponsored our Tenth Illustrious Commandress Ball at the Palm Beach Legion Hall on Jan. 10."

His direction.

This kind of commitment is the result of spiritual on top of very real committing of our lives to Jesus Christ as the Master of life.

Cane from p 11

Most of the coop's sugar goes to Savannah, Ga. refineries to be turned into pure sugar. A little goes to Clewiston to become Evercane sugar.

After the raw sugar is refined, the coop sends its by-product, Bagasse, to Quaker Oats, which runs a plant next to the mill. Quaker burns the Bagasse, which produces more residue. This residue is then itself burnt, to produce electricity for both Quaker and the coop, McPhail said.

After planting, the cane fields last from eight to 15 years before replanting is necessary. McPhail said this year's freeze didn't affect this year's cane crop, but subsequent year's may be damaged.

Editor's Note: Participating along with McPhail in this canefield visit were Zone Foreman Jim Walls, Field Foreman Chris Garcia and Crew Chief William Dotting. Crew Foreman Chris Dixon was also involved with the crew.

Look for a Vista look at the sugar cane milling process, coming soon.
